How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

For the fiscal year ended October 31, 2024, the Fund returned 34.62%, reflecting performance at the net asset value (NAV) of Class A shares, compared to the 32.79% return of the Fund's broad-based market index, MSCI ACWI Net Index.

Positive factors for the markets included momentum around the soft-landing narrative, which was supported by signs of a cooling labor market and a slowing economy, leading the market to adjust its expectations of future interest rate cuts by global central banks. Negative factors, specifically in the beginning of the period, included stronger-than-expected gross domestic product growth, resilient labor market data, and persistently high inflation readings that led to a more prolonged interest rate environment. Against this backdrop, global equity markets delivered strong returns.

Top contributors to performance: Security selection within the Communication Services sector contributed to relative performance, led by an overweight allocation to Meta Platforms, Inc. Security selection within the Financials sector also contributed to relative performance, led by an overweight allocation BAWAG Group AG.

Top detractors from performance: Security selection within the Health Care sector detracted from relative performance, led by an overweight allocation to UnitedHealth Group, Inc. Security selection within the Information Technology sector also detracted from relative performance, led by an overweight allocation to Samsung Electronics Co. Ltd.
