The Wealth-Building Potential of Stocks

Depending on an investor's time horizon and risk tolerance, stocks have historically offered the potential for significantly higher wealth creation over time versus other asset classes.

Growth Stocks Have Historically Generated Attractive Returns

Key Characteristics

Growth stocks possess the ability to build wealth over time. This stems from several potential factors:

- 1 Focus on Capital Appreciation
- 2 Ownership of Market-Leading Businesses
- 3 Exposure to Innovation Megatrends

Growth Stocks Offer Exposure to Innovation Megatrends

Many companies can be found at the forefront of innovation, technological advancements, and disruptive trends. By investing in stocks of these companies, investors can align their portfolios with the potential for significant growth driven by new ideas and technologies.

Innovation Is Accelerating, Increasing the Need to Be Active

Innovation megatrends are reshaping our world at an increasingly rapid pace, unlocking new potential investment opportunities. Companies that innovate and embrace new technologies are poised to thrive, while others may get disrupted and fail.

A Note About Risk:

Developing Growth Fund-The value of investments in equity securities will fluctuate in response to general economic conditions and to changes in the prospects of particular companies, including market, liquidity, currency, and political risks. Small cap company stocks tend to be more volatile and may be less liquid than other types of stocks. Small cap companies may also have more limited product lines, markets, or financial resources and typically experience a higher risk of failure than large cap companies. Investments in growth companies can be more sensitive to the company's earnings and more volatile than the stock market in general. The Fund engages in active and frequent trading of its securities, which may result in increased transaction fees, reduced investment performance, and higher taxes. These factors can adversely affect Fund performance.

Growth Opportunities Fund-The value of investments in equity securities will fluctuate in response to general economic conditions and to changes in the prospects of particular companies, including market, liquidity, currency, and political risks. Mid cap company stocks tend to be more volatile and may be less liquid than large cap company stocks. Mid cap companies typically experience a higher risk of failure than large cap companies. Investments in growth companies can be more sensitive to the company's earnings and more volatile than the stock market in general. These factors can adversely affect Fund performance.

Growth Leaders Fund-The value of investments in equity securities will fluctuate in response to general economic conditions and to changes in the prospects of particular companies, including market, liquidity, currency, and political risks. Mid and small cap company stocks tend to be more volatile and may be less liquid than large cap company stocks. Mid and small cap companies also may have more limited product lines, markets, or financial resources and typically experience a higher risk of failure than large companies. However, larger companies may have slower rates of growth than smaller successful companies. Investments in growth companies can be more sensitive to the company's earnings and more volatile than the stock market in general. The Fund engages in active and frequent trading of its securities, which may result in increased transaction fees, reduced investment performance, and higher taxes. These factors can adversely affect Fund performance.
